- 25X1 1. From January 1946, when the Outer Mongolian troops left Hailar, until January 1947, [REDACTED] there were no Soviet, Outer Mongolian, or 8th Route Army troops in Hailar. The only troops in Hailar were those directly under the command of Erkinbato. [REDACTED]
- 25X1 2. The border between Manchuria and the Mongolian People's Republic is closed more tightly now than it was before the defeat of the Japanese. [REDACTED]
- 25X1 [REDACTED]
- 25X1 [REDACTED] Note: The information in paragraph 1 contradicts [REDACTED] stating that two divisions of Outer Mongolian troops occupied Hailar for two days in October 1946. Although the occupation was reported by Chinese newspapers [REDACTED] who claimed to have been in the area at the time of the occupation or shortly thereafter, there have been subsequent indications that these [REDACTED] may not have been in the area as claimed. Because of the Hulunbuir accent of the above lama's Mongolian speech and his familiarity with recent military, governmental, and social set-up in Hulunbuir, it seems safe to assume that he has been a resident of the area and was there in October as he claims.)
